

Plan Before You Purchase!

Your home is really a sacred space and the best interior design creates a unique environment for everyone who lives there. It reflects your interests and lifestyle; it captures the feelings and memories you've created over the years with your friends and family.

It doesn't matter what specific design style you select. What is important is that it reflects the kind of harmony and balance you need to feel connected to that space. The right feeling in your home can actually affect your health. It takes the time and effort to create your own sacred space no matter how large or small your home is.

While you may know the look you want, you may not be skilled in selecting and putting together of all of pieces needed to design that kind of environment. Furnishings can be very expensive so you want to make the right choice the first time. Whether you are moving into a new home or giving your existing home a facelift, you need to plan before you purchase anything.

Planning an interior environment takes time and energy and professional interior designers can make the job a lot easier. They are trained to understand how color, balance, fabrics, furnishings and accessories all interact. A professional designer not only has access to industry contacts and products but a designer can save you hours of time and worry. He or she will manage the project for you – from contacting sources to coordinating vendors and deliveries.

An initial consultation with a professional designer is a very affordable way to develop your design plan. It will provide you with enough information to undertake the project yourself if you want; or, be a necessary first step in working with your own interior designer.

How do you know which designer to choose? Find one who understands the 'feeling' you want to achieve. Then, together, you can review what furniture and accessories you have right now, how satisfied you are with them and what needs to be replaced or added. In other words, you'll have a plan! Then you can go shopping with confidence and your own special sacred space will begin to take shape for your family.
